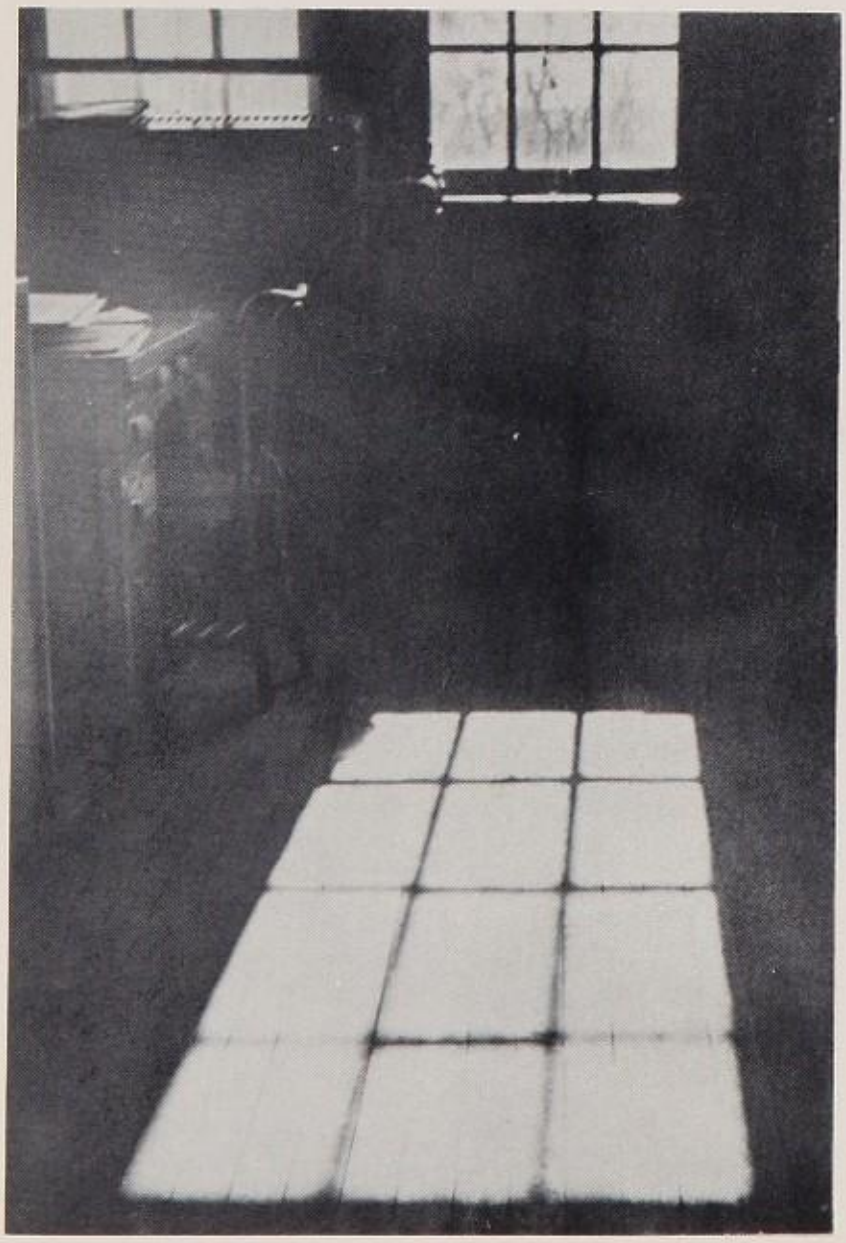
mr. benjamin braverman

mr. michael idelson



we wish to dedicate this book to mr. benjamin braverman and mr. michael idelson.

as retiring chairmen of the mathematics and physical sciences departments, both will retain a store of fond memories of their days spent at lincoln . . . memories that temper prosperity . . . that mitigate adversity . . . that control youth . . and that delight old age.

we wish them happy and rewarding years of retirement.

only a few short days ago, lincoln was an inseparable part of your every-day living. it was lincoln morning—noon—and night. now—lincoln is your past—your unforgettable past—because during the happy and exciting years you have spent here, we have tried to fashion with you and for you the kinds of experiences that would make the rest of your lives significantly different and meaningful to you and to all who will come to know you, to love you, and to depend upon you.

to all of us lincoln is more than a school—more than a place to learn. it is a way of life, a way of living and working together. here we hope you have learned—and will always remember—to continue the endless fight for freedom and to use this hard-won freedom responsibly, to respect the dignity of all peoples, to find joy in serving your community, to help the needy and less fortunate, to desire and appreciate excellence wherever you find it—in the arts, in literature, music, science, in government, in the world of sports and entertainment. we hope, too, that your lives will be brightened and deepened by the great simplicities—by kindness, decency, patience, and understanding.

wherever you go, whatever you do, we know that you, like thousands of lincolnites before you, will fulfill yourselves and make us proud of you and your achievements.

sincerely,

Abraham H. Lane

the caterpillar and alice looked at each other for some time in silence; at last the caterpillar took the hookah out of his mouth and addressed her in a languid, sleepy voice.

"who are you?" said the caterpillar.

alice replied, rather shyly, "i—i hardly know, sir, just at present—at least i know who i was when i go up this morning, but i think i must have changed several times since then.

"what do you mean by that?" said the caterpillar, sternly. "explain yourself!"

"i can't explain myself, i'm afraid, sir," said alice, "because i'm not myself, you see."

"i don't see," said the caterpillar.

"i'm afraid i can't put it more clearly," alice replied, "for i can't understand it myself, to begin with; and being so many different sizes in a day is very confusing."

it's always easy to look back and say what you should have done, should have been, but it is a far more difficult thing to say what you should do and should be. here you are looking back on four years of high school: years that were alternately futile and fruitful, happy yet sad—so many things, so many varying contradictory things . . . and you look back and appraise and criticize your actions with an objectivity that was unheard of at the time.

you were alice. you had felt so many ways—been so many sizes in one day during those four years that even now, you can't really say who you are or even who you were. your moods pulled you up and down on a puppet-string, changing you outwardly yet leaving your innate self unaffected.

and even if you could have seen through the fluctuations of mood, you still wouldn't have been able to answer, "who are you?" . . . for the human mind and character are so complex that they are beyond our understanding.

however, the picture is not as dismal as it seems. if you do what you feel is right, then you will be doing all that can be expected of you. the pitfalls, the impossibilities of true introspection must not discourage you, for this understanding is something to look toward—perhaps, never to reach—yet still an ideal.

you are now graduating from high school—going on to explore new horizons, meet new people, enter into a huge new world of which you will be only a minute part. the years spent in lincoln seem to be all-encompassing, yet you will soon realize that they are only a taste, a slice, of the wonders that life has in store for you.

you are going on towards the future with, at best, a hazy picture of your true self, and yet with a hope for ultimate understanding.

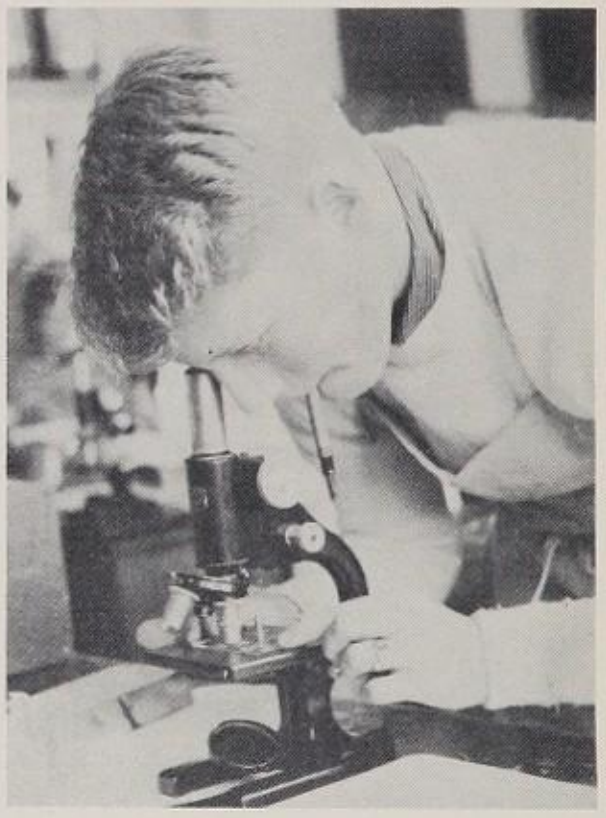
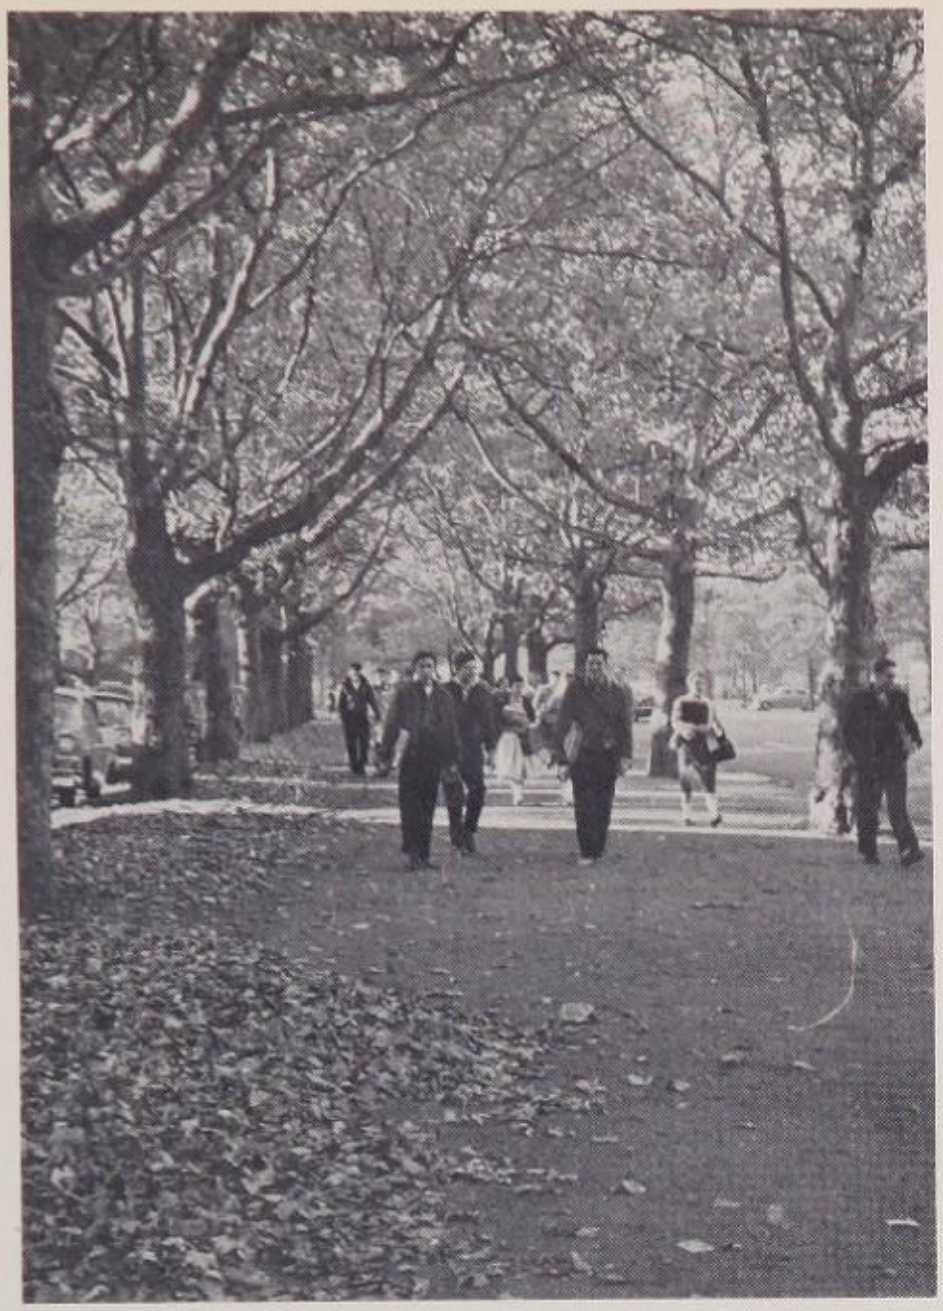
how awesome it all seemed at the beginning . . . so very big, so many people. you felt so young, so insignificant . . . and yet a part.

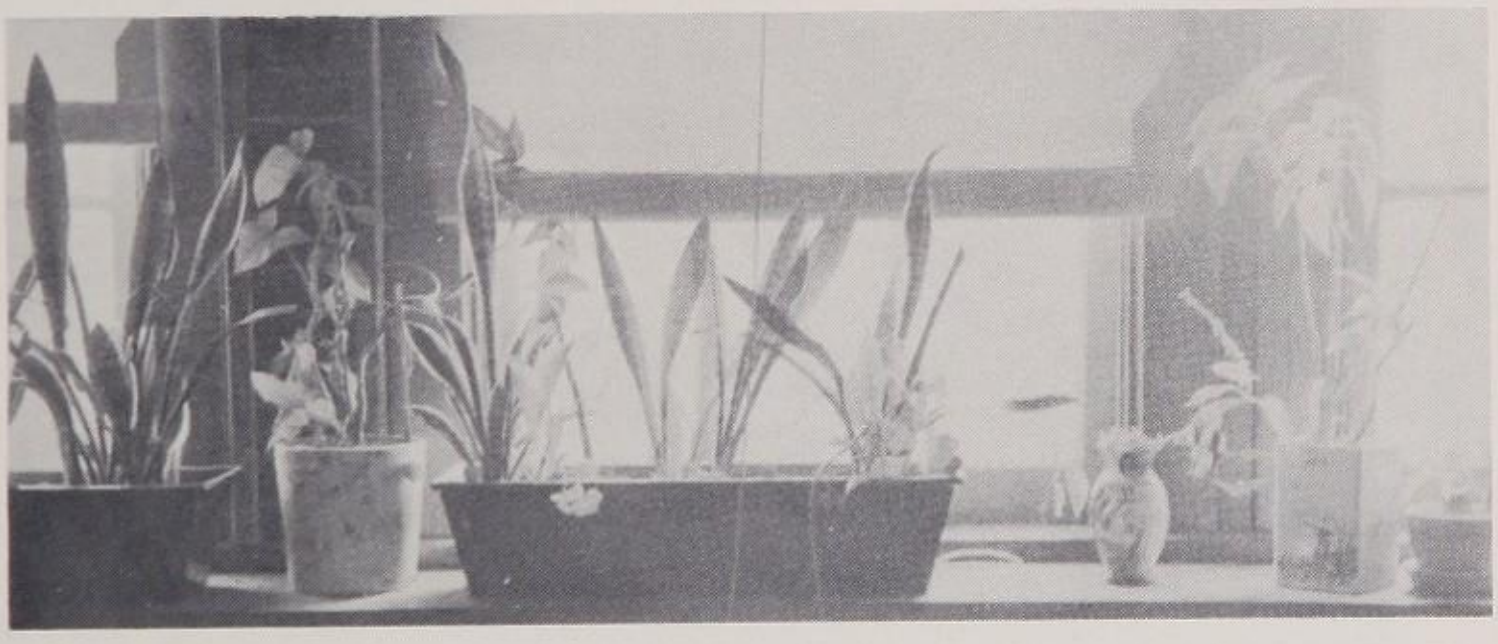
the masses in the halls, on the stairways, in the cafeteria . . . lunch period . . . the teachers; delaney cards, program cards . . . working in an office, on a squad . . . your g.o. card with those first service credits . . . the crowded locker rooms, forgetting your gym-shirt and sneakers . . . homework — the fright of midterms, of coming regents . . .

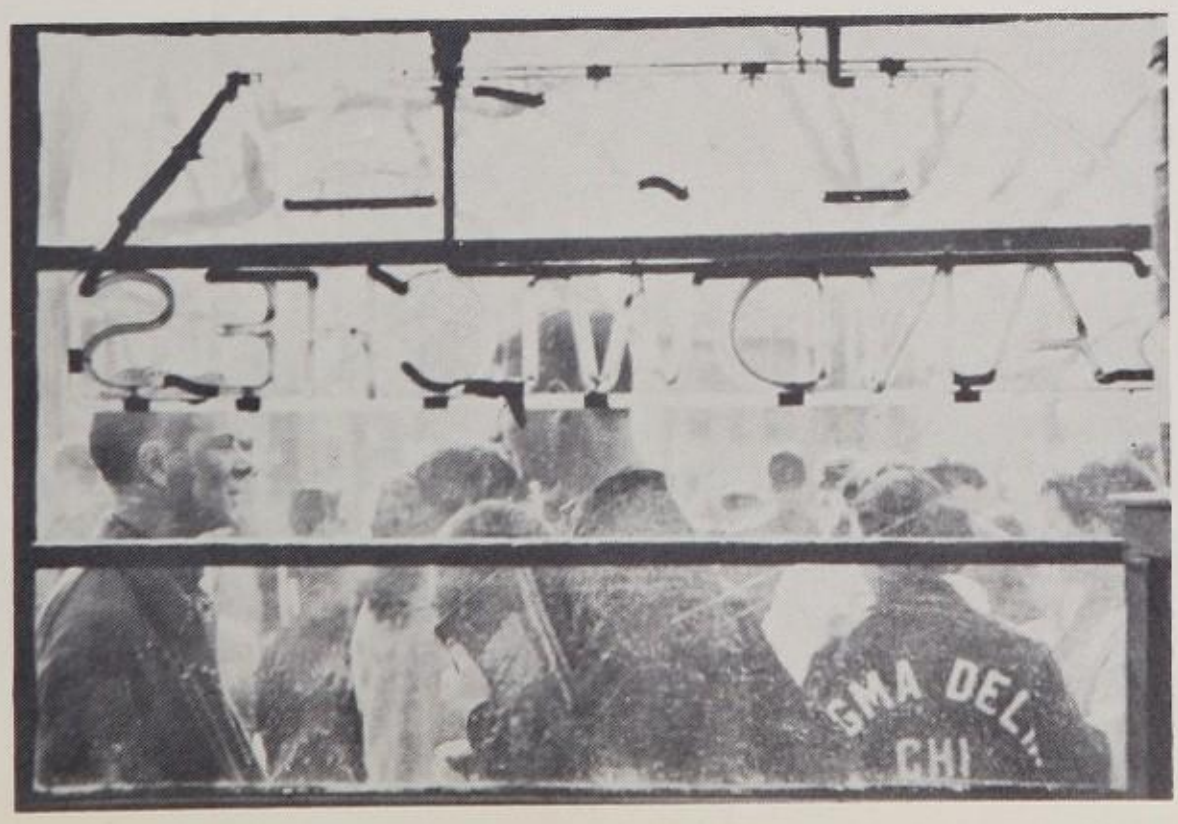
and how surprised you were to find that there were people who were just as scared, just as worried, just as proud as you at the realization of going to high school . . . and, from among them, you somehow singled out those who became your very good friends.





mrs. betty heller in the library.





when you became a junior the pace began to quicken. you joined so many activities . . . the log, the art squad, the math team, choral, the orchestra, the track team, the varsity cast . . . so many things to choose from, to do, to work for . . .

you emerged from the cocoon of the sophomore, emerged from the times of just standing by and watching juniors and seniors . . . when you were the one who was being watched and looked up to and followed.

remember g.o. elections, and your friends who ran . . . the arista and arkon inductions . . . receiving a major letter . . . booster and twirler tryouts . . . regents . . . getting to know people better . . . cramming homework into those precious 13 minutes of prefect . . . regents . . . your friends graduating . . . and the prospect of being next year's seniors . . .

you were no longer scratching the surface of life at lincoln; you became embedded in it, an integral part of it . . . studying, concentrating, learning, teaching, showing . . . developing into a distinct personality . . .

outwardly they all seemed alike to you; class nite, sing and the varsity show appeared just variations on the same theme; but you, the people in the audience didn't experience the warmth, the personal contact, the intimacy of the varsity show.

it was not just an outpouring of words on a stage or a hurling of gestures toward an audience; it was a heartfelt experience. you didn't see the rehearsals—the sessions where the play was analyzed, where poise and the art of projection were learned, and where the arts of the theatre were delved into. you just saw the acting of the plot.

you missed the eagerness of mr. blum. you missed the sorrow that struck when mr. blum retired and the dehection that followed and the satisfaction that came when mr. speiser, stepping into a giant's footprints, whipped the show together.

the movements on the stage are just the outer manifestations of the actor; too bad the audience cannot experience the fulfillment that comes after a long and tiring—but fun-filled—preparation.

we will remember the transformation of the g.o. from a static figurehead to a dynamic, flexible student government. with the aid and guidance of miss pearl crystal, the holtzman twins, bob and liz, bunny greene, susan stein, and joe martori have succeeded in bringing to lincoln sing, a january graduation, student-faculty competitions, the free g.o. movie, the braille club, the year-long tenure of office . . . so many innovations which will become a part of lincoln tradition. you may take pride in the fact that it was through your efforts that this g.o. was created, and through your support that it has been maintained.

the program card was, at first, your only and cherished link to the massive organization—alhs, but through the mutations of successive terms it became the substitute for a room pass, the subject of infinite "crossing-outs" and "rewritings", the almost blank symbol of the carefree senior.

you received your program card, inscribed as if by gremlins, with the symbols and numbers which would guide your life from 8:31 a.m. to 2:35 p.m. the unseen work of developing this master plan can be attributed to mr. sam feigenbaum, mrs. sylvia spar and their program committee.

you joined, you worked, you became a part . . . and you were rewarded. your athletic, musical and scholastic talents, your service to the school were recognized. the reward, although your personal satisfaction was sufficient, was a pleasing experience and a further encouragement.

the gold arkon pin seemed superfluous, when you thought of the pleasurable days spent on lincoln's office squads, teams and clubs.

to some of you, arista was an induction ceremony and a blue and gray pin; a reward for scholarship. to others, it was tutoring students in math and history, and implementation of scholarship.

the national honor society came to lincoln in 1958 with its unique induction, its scholarship fund, its community service projects. the founding officers —gary caplan, liz holtzman, sheila white, john markoff—and the advisors—mrs. a. clynch, mrs. f. kohn, mrs. m. heller—brought a dynamic organization to a dynamic school.

the various music societies at lincoln satisfy the students' need for creative expression.

mrs. alice eisen, director of the chorus and glee club, has instilled in her pupils a deep love and appreciation of fine singing that can never be destroyed.

the dance and symphonic bands and orchestra are under the leadership of mr. benjamin goldman and mr. sidney shapiro. as their members go on to new heights, they will utilize the musical experience that they have gained at lincoln as a sturdy foundation for further growth.

these instrumental and choral groups, united for occasions such as the music festival, have succeeded in bringing music closer to lincolnites.

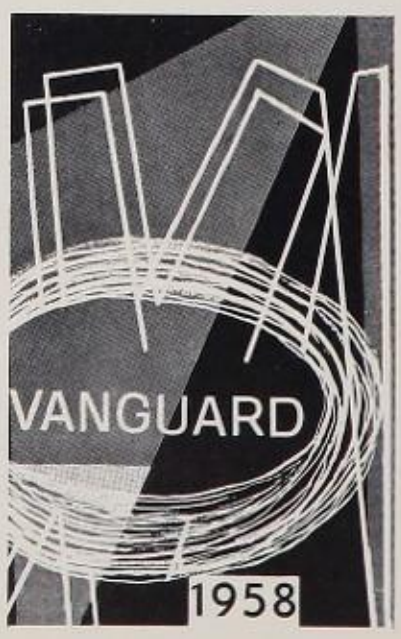
as freshmen and sophomores, taking major art I, you were early introduced to the art squad—"the only squad in lincoln without faculty supervision." you were invited to an after-school meeting one day, and informed of the responsibilities of art squad members. no matter—this was your goal, and you were going to reach it.

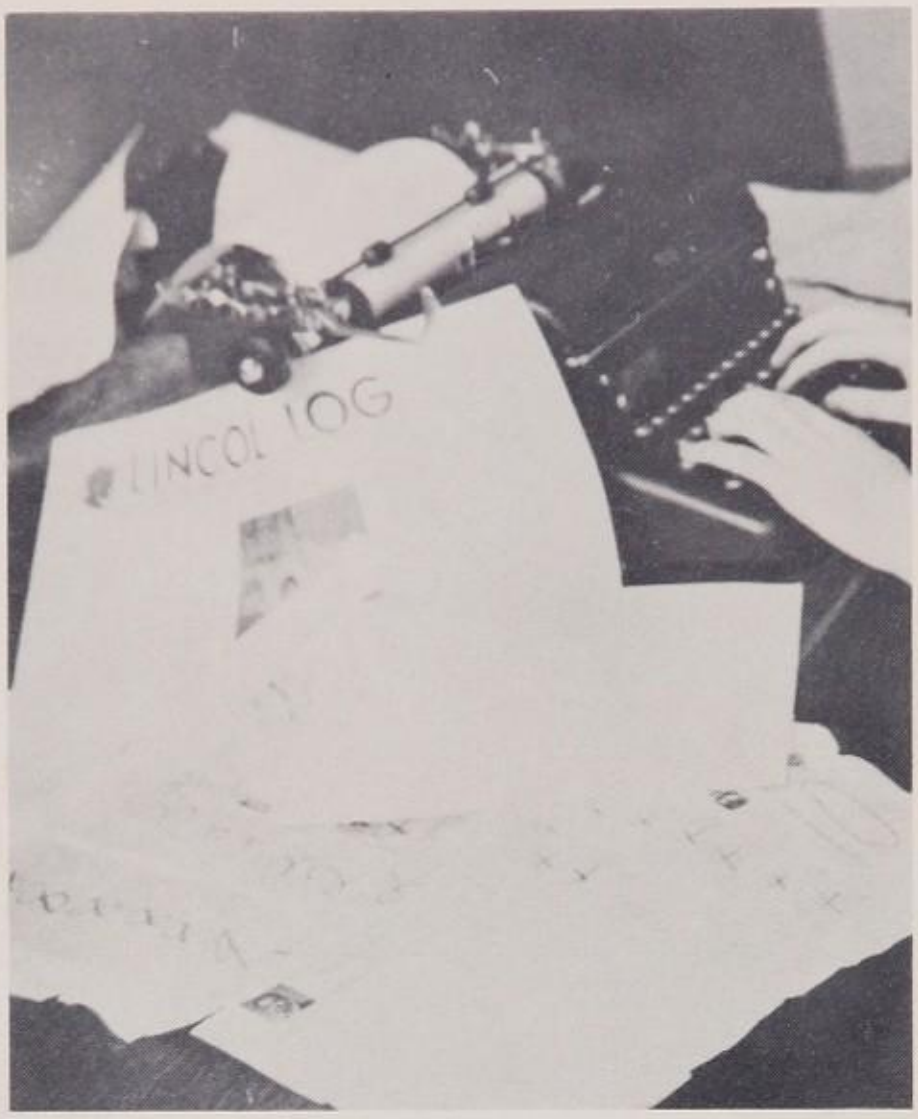
thus determined, you gingerly approached an "old" squad member, asking him to be your "sponsor". for weeks, you worked together, learning, advising, conferring, preparing, 'til the day of the tryout. so early . . . so inadequate . . . and, in prefect, the joy of the words: "we are happy to inform you that you have been accepted . . ."

a full-fledged member, you assumed the responsibility of decorating the halls of lincoln, halls which were your territory for 4 years. now you are leaving. and, to you, the art squad will always remain as a symbol of the fun, the happiness, the sadness, the work . . . the beginning.



launched successfully after a favorable experiment with a prototype model, "vanguard" has taken its orbit in the vast sky of lincoln publications. faculty advisor dr. philip shorr, along with editors walter kwass and richard rosner have closed the gap that had long existed in the spectra of lincoln periodicals—the lack of a social studies journal.

you will remember the log as those first naive days in mr. grumette's journalism class . . . painstakingly writing headlines, only to have some ruthless editor substitute his own . . . desperate attempts to squeeze nonexistent information out of harried teachers . . . the first by-line . . . watching student after student crumple up the fruits of your arduous labor . . . the very first time you chanced to see someone's eyes scanning your story . . . unused and unwanted feature stories . . . impromptu trips to the printer . . . but most of all, the feeling of pride in seeing your story in print.

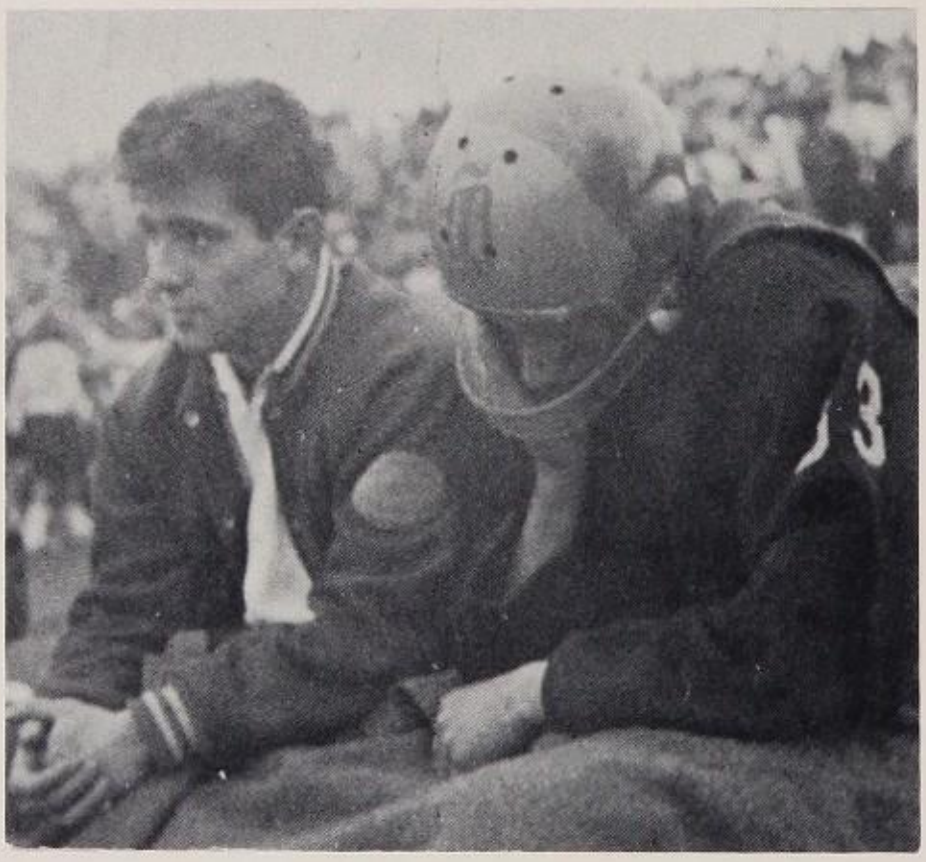


some of us stood there shaking, others mopping their brows and still others just fidgiting. all were silent. we had lost . . .

all the months of practice, drills, practice, drills, more practice and more drills. get to bed early. do this! don't do that! that's better! . . . good! eat! study! . . . we had worked hard and now we had to be silent. we were confused.

i quit. it's too hard. it's just not worth it—we were all thinking the same thing but none dared to say it. a voice cracked the silence. it was the coach. he was telling us what had gone wrong. his voice seemed distant and far removed. we hardly heard him.

as we left the school the boosters gave out with a l-i-n-c-o-l-n. it seemed to say, "don't quit, keep trying, keep trying."



the 1956 football season was a dismal one for lincoln. the team managed to win two out of eight, tying two and losing four.

after a defeat at the hands of brooklyn tech in the initial encounter the team just ran out of steam. 1956 became a year of disappointment—a year of building for the future.

the lincoln squad was to build a structure that would see completion one year later, on a snow swept field, against the same team which had started its downfall.

coach mccaffrey looked at the statistics while the boys sat on the dressing room benches. the coach was the only person to speak. the first half was over and lincoln was losing to the bronx bombers from clinton high.

a manager handed out some oranges; everyone grabbed for them anxiously. it was something to do; they weren't doing much against clinton.

before the team returned to the floor everyone put their heads in the center of the room; there was a hearty cheer and the cagers ran out . . .

it was a long walk back to the dressing room. lincoln had lost. there was nothing anyone could do about it. despite anton muehlbauer's 19 points, stu singer's 13 and fine play by the other basketeers, clinton had defeated the honest abes 65-54.

all the boys were tired. the game was longer than any other game they had played. the season was over, it was all over.

you have heard it mentioned that Lincoln's rifle team has lost only one match this year. you may also have heard that this match was the city championship.

one can imagine how we all felt as the scores were read. we all had done well and were expecting a victory when brooklyn tech suddenly came through and snatched trophy from our hands.

riflery requires about ten per cent physical training and ninety per cent mental training. the ability to control perfectly every motion of one's body in a situation where each minute brings additional tension is absolutely necessary. a flinch of a quarter of an inch just before the bullet leaves the barrel puts it five inches off target.

so when we lost the championship, each of us felt the same emptiness; all the months of practice had gone to waste. it was too late to correct the mistake . . . the irretrievable shot.

our four years at lincoln have seen four top-notch basketball teams represent us. three of these have gained play-off berths in the city championships.

in our freshman year 1954-1955 we saw the basketball team, under mr. b. kirsner's tutelage, bring home first place in brooklyn division with a fine 14-4 record.

led by captains stockfedder, villamina and lassman, the 1955-1956 edition wound up its season with a 13-6 mark and a third place in its divisions.

in our junior year 1956-1957 a new coach, mr. william maccaffrey and captain mark reiner led the hoopsters to a second place finish. reiner's backcourt mate was danny liebowitz. chuck feinstein, lou desillas and anton muehlbauer operated up front. in the play-offs an inspired port richmond upset the favored lincoln five 51-50.

as seniors we saw our cagers run up a thrilling 13-7 record.

in the backcourt, along with marty schultz, was captain and all-city star, anton muehlbauer. at the forwards were dave sinclair and jeff kirsch. dav and jeff coupled with stu singer at center provided lincoln with a very formidable forward wall. milt klein, another senior, was singer's replacement and probably would have started on a weaker team.

lincoln started the season with a win over erasmus, 70-68. the team then proceeded to rip through lafayette, fort hamilton, new utrecht, and madison, losing only to manual. some tough breaks in the final portion of the season pushed lincoln down into a three-way tie for second.

lincoln's 12 point victory over utrecht put them in madison square garden; they were going against clinton. it was a rough game for the cagers who couldn't come up with any of the scoring they were known for. clinton won, 65-54.

this was a good year for the basketeers. coach mccaffrey made them into a united team, a team to which every game was a victory, win or lose.

revenge! revenge and a grand exit from the lincoln scene. these were the aims of the seniors who sparked the 1957 lincoln football team to an unofficial city championship by defeating brooklyn tech by a score of 33 to 0 in the winter's first snowstorm at lincoln field.

the seniors on the team are only too eager to heap all the credit and honor upon the shoulders of coach-of-the-year mr. vin gargano. seldom in the history of lincoln sport has a team mentor combined such depth of skill and experience with the amazingly rare gift of being able to inspire his team to feats of superhuman strength and endurance.

here we find no dearth of great talent to speak of. captains jay goldberg and phil steinberg grew up with the team, suffered through the best-to-be-forgotten 1956 season; and then, with the cry "remember 1956" as their watchword, sparked the gridders to an unblemished 7-0-0 record.

since it is impossible to mention the names of all the graduating grid stars, we are reluctant to name any. however, let it suffice to say that such backfield greats as goldberg and steinberg must share the football glory with such line stalwarts as carmine parisi and al elkin.

the names and pictures of the other members of the graduating football team appear on another page of this book. they made up a team which distinguished itself as much by its spirit and loyalty as it did by its unsurpassable record.

doc schecter, coach of the track team, has the uncanny ability of spotting potential in spindle legged fresh men and developing them into hardy, award-winning trackmen.

among the seniors doc has raised are captain larry bussey, co-captain lenny klepack, bob holtzman, stan safowitz, ernie alleva, herb ferstandig and city champ pole-vaulter herman carr.

highlights of the current campaign were numerous, uppermost being the 3:29.6 mile relay, which was turned in at the iona-queens meet. this was the best time for a mile relay in the past fifteen years of lincoln history. it was run by klepack, bussey, safowitz, and a promising junior, ernie zeh.

another memorable moment was the bishop loughlin meet of last december in which lincoln's half mile relay team finished third in a field of 140.

also brought to mind is the fine performance of herman carr in finishing in third place among all eastern pole-vaulters.

baseball

during the past two years the lincoln baseball team has had an off-and-on success. in 1956 the nine captured a city crown to celebrate mr. abe plaut's final season as coach.

1957 was a rebuilding year. the team had just secured a new coach in the person of physics teacher mr. herb isaacson. furthermore, it had been hard hit by 1956 graduation. no city championship was won in 1957. neither was the team disgraced. they finished off with a respectable record and at the same time laid the foundation for a powerful 1958 squad.

with the advent of the present season the lincoln baseball team once again has come into its own. mr. isaacson had no trouble instilling confidence into his boys. now, with a year's experience behind him he has become, according to the players, "the greatest coach in the city."

of course, spirit and a first-rate coach are not the only assets which our baseball team can boast of. as far as actual baseball talent is concerned they are also pretty well set. all of the starting nine, and more, are deserving of mention here. however, as we do not have the space to include all the names we will mention only the two captains. joe marcucci and richie malone — consider yourselves mentioned.

lincolnites may well be proud of the members of their gym team. in addition to mastering a difficult sport they have shown great perseverance. they continue their endeavors without the slightest slackening despite the lack of a city-wide gymnastics league.

coached by mr. mac ball, co-captains daniel korn and benjamin harrison, backed by seniors krafchik, stashower, and harvey, have just completed a fairly successful season. they finished third in a field of twelve teams in all-city gymnastic championship competition.

last year led by co-captains lorenzo tyeda and harry heffer, the gym team was generally considered to be unstoppable.

in 1956 at the all-city meet, lincoln finished second to tech. captain figler was named first on the parallel bars and was officially cited as the best performer of the meet.

it was a different kind of tennis team, a strange team, and odd team, a scrambled team of an off-beat year. the promising rookies—strickler, rentzler, markoff, goldman, rubenstein, caplan—were seniors. the seasoned veterans—niederhoffer, paris, traunstein, lizt, fein, roselle—were juniors and sophs. captain niderhoffer, the youngest, was the best.

and its attitude was different too. teams are supposed to be boastful and overconfident, predicting undefeated seasons; but this team wasn't. it accepted the fact it couldn't finish first—midwood was too good—but yet it wasn't a team of listless quitters. you had to call them realists.

the lincoln handball team has a simple problem this year: can they lead their division? for the past three years the winner of their division has gone on to take the city championship.

to help them in their pursuit of city honors the abes have at their disposal one of the best doubles teams and one of the best singles men in the city. the doubles combination consists of two seniors: murray cautin and arthur jacobson. these boys work extremely well together as a team and particularly well under pressure.

the singles man, also a senior, is joel rentzler.

under the supervision of mr. bill mccaffrey, the handball team and especially the senior element is looking forward to a highly successful season.

handball team

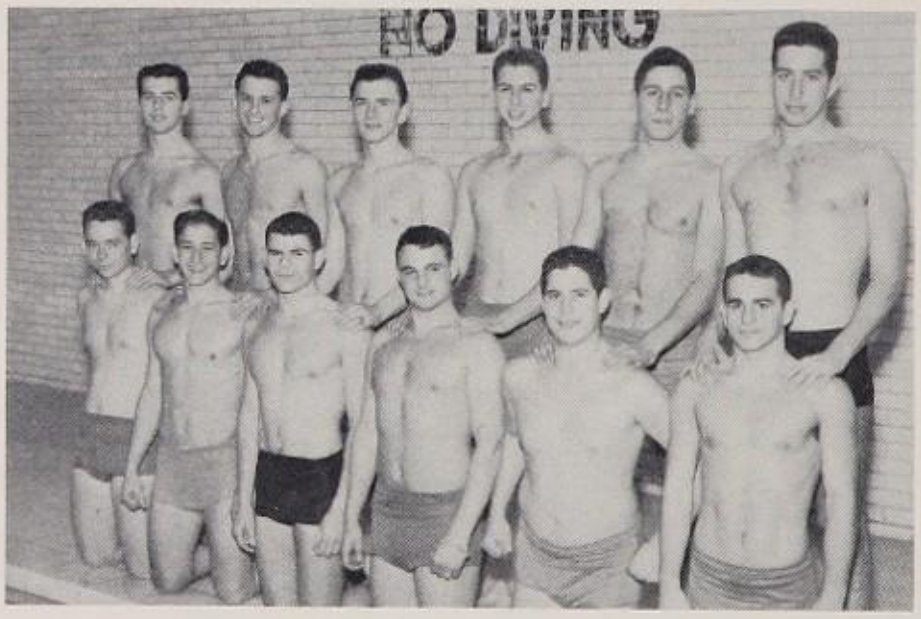
lincoln can well be proud of this year's rifle team. because, except for one painful defeat at the city championships, the team was undefeated. to quote the record, the team defeated the following opponents: manual training, midwood, lafayette, madison, and hamilton. just to a little detail, most of the margins of victory were from eighty to one-hundred points.

coach hazel shapiro did a fine job coaching the boys, whose vanguard consisted of captail mel pincus, co-captain jeff benson, joe nimoy, barry hornstein, and paul terowsky.



swimming team

the lincoln swimming team will be especially hard hit by graduation come this june. a dozen seniors, including team captain ben vogel, will dry themselves of lincoln water for the very last time.

The team has not had a spectacular season by which they can remember their lincoln days in future years. their record for the season is 7-3. nevertheless, the boys, one and all, expressed great satisfaction in the years spent on this team. under the able guidance of mr. goldberg they have developed both fine discipline of body which comes from swimming and the warm spirit of comradeship which, traditionally, is an integral part of all lincoln teams.

in addition to captain ben vogel other graduating members of the team who will attend various colleges are: lowell cooper, danny farber, roger fox, irwin greenberg, pete greenstein, arthur hanig, sam packer, stan shapiro, richard sher, richie sultzer, and howie wexler.

after two division championships in the last three years, the lincoln pinmen "keggled" along to an 8-2, second place finish this year.

last season, the squad was depleted by graduation, but dan orans, joel walter simon debbah, and joel abolafia more than made up for the loss.

when the past season rolled around, coach maxwell gelender was faced with the identical situation. the entire foursome were lost to graduation. thus, a tedious rebuilding job was in store.

the bowlers, led b y captain bob feldman, rallied and ended up strong second in their division sweepstakes. bob cohen quaified for the city individual championship by bowling a 150 average.

the blue and gray, by finishing with an 8-2 slate, defeated all league competition, except "spoiler" fort hamilton, who triumphed twice.

bowling team

mac ball's soccerman, dumuzio, lipezansky, the perelmutters, sacheleri, and schilt, led by co-captains joseph giamboi and george panagakos finished third in their very highly competitive division.

the 1956 team, sparked by an all-city selection, captain joe abramowitz, raced through their divisions title and the finals of the psal championship playoff.

in 1955 they compiled the admirable record of 5-2-2, being defeated only by lafayette. captain steve flamhaft was chosen to be a member of the team that represented new york in an inter-city battle against philadelphia.

in 1956, the lincoln fencing team led the city. graduation losses took almost all the veterans making the following year a year for seasoning. 1957 became a year to learn.

under the guidance of mr. s. shapiro, the 1957-8 fencing team has attained the coveted top berth in the city, despite the oppressive compretition of arch-rival stuyvesant. capt. herb cohen has won over one-hundred bouts in his p.s.a.l. career, setting a lincoln record. june will find the team, devoid of cohen, co-captain hal krebs, phil rappaport, sol needle, and neil diamond, left with a slim chance of repeating this year's success.

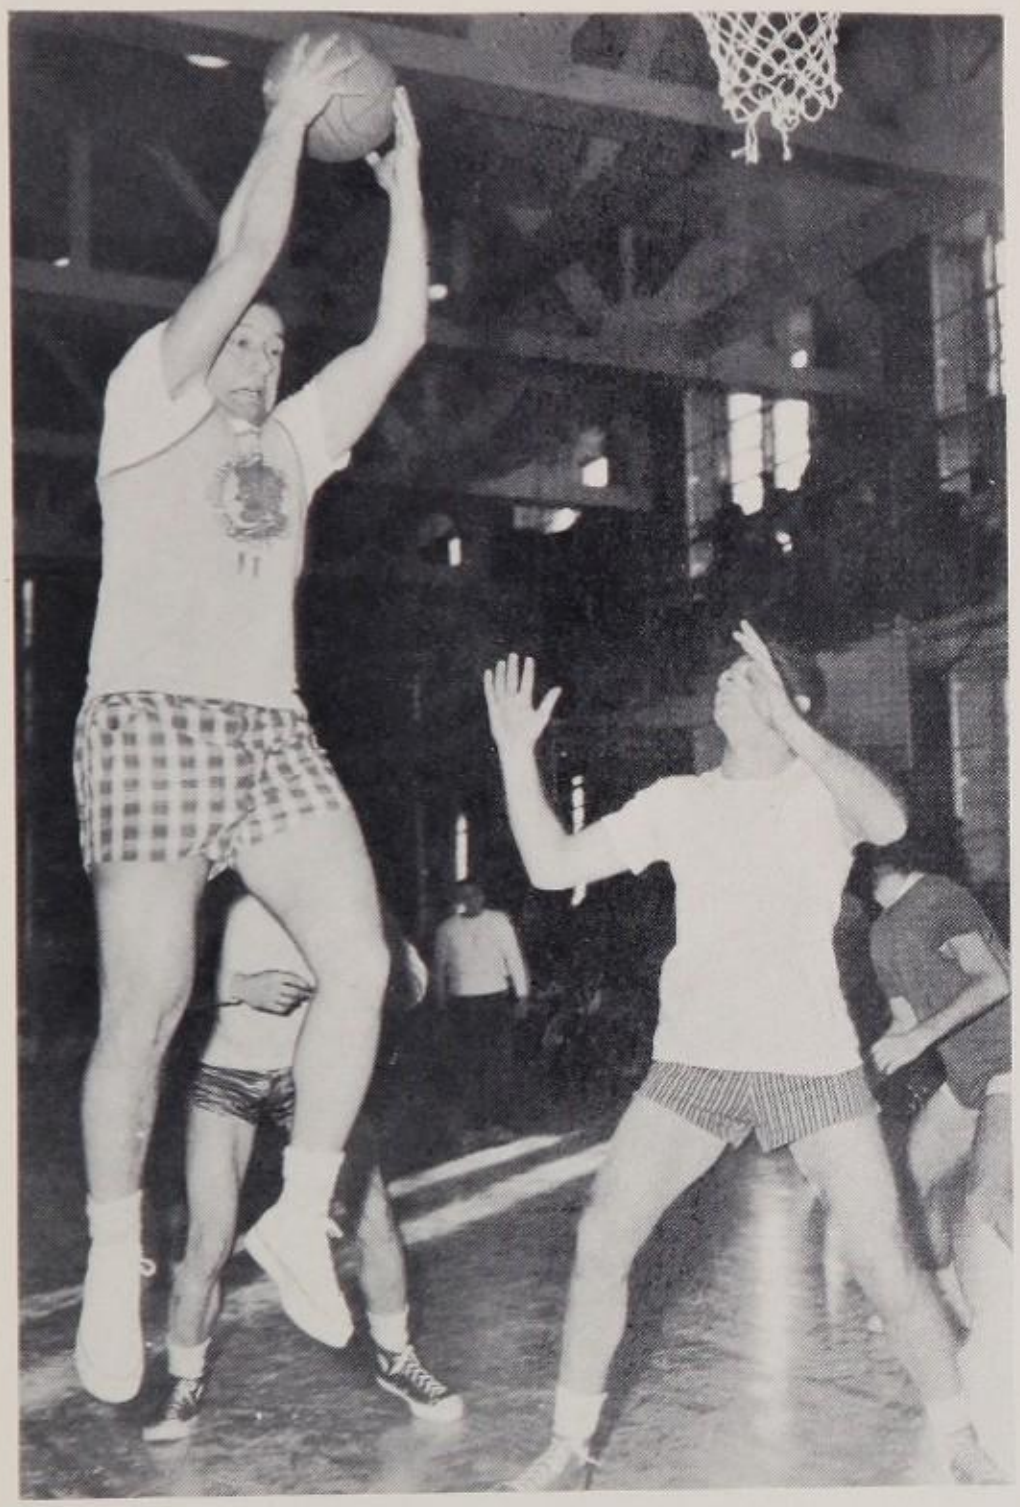
we were brand new seniors and lincoln was having its first sing. our senior sing was going to be the best.

everyone pitched in—writing the script, painting scenery and taking care of little emergencies . . . like the time all the scenery fell down two minutes before curtain time on opening night.

we put on a really great show. larry strickler played mephistopholes with ease and grace, putting all the senior singers under his spell. it was a bad day in lincoln high when the devil took over and the teachers suffered the worst. mr. kaufman was deprived of the use of his sun lamp, miss pearl crystal lost all her g.o. committees, and mrs. hazel shapiro was tricked into a game of russian roulette. yes, we had fun . . . oops, i mean it was terrible. but, like every fairy tale our sing had a happy ending. the devil was banished from the halls of lincoln; the angels were again in command, clad in the loveliest white bed sheets, and all the seniors were graduated wearing beautiful aluminum foil mortar boards.

we were happy to be seniors and happier still when we won "sing."



but victory was not so easy to come by when lincoln teachers rather than lincoln students were the competition. despite the high hopes and spirits of the students, the more experienced faculty with their vivacious cheerleaders were victorious in every student-faculty bout. your only consolation in the face of pseudo-humiliation was your triumph over the intellectually superior teachers in the spelling bee.

it wasn't all gaiety and fun . . . there were the poignant moments like the time helen keller received the lincoln award. you felt strangely privileged to see how much this woman has done with the little that she has. how proud you were that your school was honoring her.

it was called the college office, but it wasn't just that. sure, you had your applications filled out, your questions answered, and the mesdames clynch, heller, kohn and mr. pollock got you into college, but that isn't all you remember. you remember the lighter things . . . the comfortable chairs, the unwashed teacups, the meeting of the chapter of the national egotists society, and the discussions, the discussions on anything—on individualism, on jurgen, on klee, on salinger, on conformity, on what you and your friends were like. so thanks college office, thanks for everything.

then came the scourge of your senior year—boards . . . and the cramming you somehow had to fit in . . . so you turned to the study groups, to miss bantecas, to mrs. rappaport . . . and you digested and regurgitated the four years of work you hadn't bothered to learn . . . and then it was january 15 and you felt sure you had gotten a 200 . . . but you hadn't . . . the study groups had helped.

ode to mr. grubman

"the time has come", the good lass said,
"to speak of many things, of paint, and clay, and long t-squares, the auto that he brings.
and why his hair is snowy white, and why he wears no rings."

but time is short; we must be brief.
alas, we gasp a sigh.
three—two—three no more will see the man of matchless tie.
so one more time we bid adieu, good-bye, paul g., good-bye.

late passes we never had,
that made mrs. calabro very mad.
but all and all it was like heaven;
our little madhouse called
